

Search results preview

| | | |
|--|---------------|------------|
| Project Engineer Burke Pipe & Civil Contractors Pty Ltd This person must bring with them a unique approach, diligence, self-direction and, above all, enthusiasm that reflects the business direction. Engineering> Civil/Structural Engineering Add to shortlist | Sydney | NEW |
|--|---------------|------------|

Job details preview

Please note: images and templates may not print because of browser print settings.

Project Engineer

This person must bring with them a unique approach, diligence, self-direction and, above all, enthusiasm that reflects the business direction.

A passion for developing knowledge and working alongside a site construction team, with the ability to respond to company structure and systems is an essential aspect of this position; combined with a thoroughness of knowledge across construction methodologies, best practice, quality and safety.

Previous experience in a civil on-site environment is a must. Experience in working with an Integrated Management System is fundamental. This role is the integral link and technical support to the Project Management team.

This individual will not fit the traditional characteristics of a Project Engineer; this person must be able to match the stamina to work at a fast pace in a dynamic environment.

Essential Competencies:

- Strong interpersonal skills
- Verbal and written capability
- Applied protocol when interacting with senior management and clients
- Plan and prioritise workloads to meet changing deadlines
- Respond to IMS requirements
- Conversant with civil construction methodologies
- Numeric plan reading competency

The role offers a highly organised, focused and energetic individual the opportunity to put their know-how into practice in a responsive and professional organisation. Adaptability, originality and high energy will be integral to a candidate's success in this role.

All applications should be forwarded with a CV to admin@burkecontractors.com.au

-